We started using AgriPhage in the summer of 2004. We had been using standard copper treatments once a week. At times, this was harsh on the plants, especially when they were setting blooms.

With AgriPhage, I have had clean plants, and have used almost no copper. This has allowed the tomato plants to set more fruit and has given me an increase in yield. Additionally, for some reason, I have had fewer spider mite problems as well.

I would encourage any tomato or pepper grower to take a serious look at AgriPhage for a better, environmental-friendly way to control bacteria.

Cordially,

Jamie Boatwright
